

Prof. Dr. Eckhard Boles

“He is supportive in organizing and promoting collaborations with national and international research groups as well as industrial partners. [...] Thus, he actively assists in opening as many doors for his students as possible, regardless of whether they wish to pursue a career in academia or elsewhere.”

“He is extremely approachable and willing to spend time to discuss projects [...]. As such, students are able to plan their time individually and accordingly which enables a good work-life balance, especially for the three students within the group which have small children. [...] He truly prioritizes his students’ work, despite the plethora of other responsibilities he has.”

FB 15 – Biowissenschaften

Institut für Molekulare Biowissenschaften